Why doesn't the total of the percentages equal 100%?

The expense percentages of program services, management & general and fundraising are based upon the organization's reported gross contributions. Consequently, the total of these three percentages will not always equal 100%.

For example, if the three percentages total less than 100%, it could mean the organization spent less in the fiscal year when compared to its amount gross contributions (total expenses < gross contributions).

Conversely, if the three percentages total more than 100%, it could mean the organization spent more in the fiscal year when compared to its gross contributions (total expenses > gross contributions). In those instances where the total percentages exceed 100%, it should not be assumed that the organization had a deficit for the fiscal year (i.e. expenses exceeded revenue).

General Note: The dollar amount of gross contributions reported is not necessarily the same as the amount of total revenue. It is possible for an organization to have sources of revenue other than contributions.

You are encouraged to review the organization's financial records through Guidestar.org or by contacting the organization directly.
